CARL BARRON

Carl Barron is a roof tiler whose observational style of comedy appeals to everyone. He has been a regular on the club, theatre and campus circuit for five years and regularly features in Sydney and Melbourne.

Carl was voted Comic of the Year in 1993 and Best Up & Coming Talent in 1993 at the annual "Night of Nights" at the Comedy Hotel in Sydney. He has performed as headline act for Channel Nine, Foxtel, The Comedy Channel, Amnesty International, Artist Services and The Footy Show, as well as appearing on Prime TV's Steady Eddy Comedy Gala.

Carl appeared on Channel Nine's "The Footy Show" four times during 1997 culminating with his spot at the Capitol Theatre in front of 2,500 people for the grand final edition of "The Footy Show".

He has also appeared on The Comedy Channel, Hey Hey It's Saturday, and has toured throughout NSW and QLD. Carl has already appeared on "The Footy Show" three times this year and will once again please the huge grand final audience when he appears on the show on September 24.

Carl Barron is undoubtedly one of Australia's fastest rising comedy stars and to underline this, has been asked and subsequently flown to appear at this year's Edinburgh Comedy Festival...and he also performed in front of 10,000 people during half-time of the St George Dragons vs North Queensland Cowboys game.

Carl's non-threatening observational style of comedy appeals to a broad audience. His comedy has been described as gentle, awkward, self conscious, relaxed and quirky.
