ANDREW DADDO

For a guy who had no idea what he wanted to do out of university, Andrew Daddo has managed to do a lot. He has been a regular face on Australian television, stage and film for more than a decade.

Andrew began his television career at Network Ten while an undergraduate at Monash University, Melbourne where he completed an Arts degree majoring in Politics and History.

In 1987, Andrew moved to ABC TV to host its national music show The Factory before being lured to New York to be a host on MTV.

In 1992, Andrew came back to Australia and spent time at the Nine Network as Professor Plum, before moving to the Seven Network in 1995. That year, he hosted Australia's Funniest People, World's Greatest Commercials and TV WEEK Logie Awards.

In 1999, Andrew co-hosted Kidspeak with Ernie Dingo - a funny and candid insight into the things children do say. From there he took up the position of co-anchor on the Seven Network's 11AM which continued until mid-2000, when Olympic fever took hold of him and the Network. Andrew co-hosted the Olympic early morning program Olympic Sunrise with Johanna Griggs. Andrew is now a regular presenter on the Seven Network's travel program The Great Outdoors.

In addition to his television duties, Andrew has established himself as a successful author of children's books. His writing career started with the very successful Sprung! and Writing in Wet Cement and has followed with a number of sequels. No prequels are threatened at this stage.

MC

Andrew has worked regularly as MC for various companies including the Australian Designer Collection, W.A. Fashion Awards, People's Choice Awards, Tasmanian Tourism Awards, and for four consecutive years the International Advertising Awards (at Cannes Festival).....

TYPICAL CLIENT CFEEDBACK

"Excellent. Andrew was a fantastic host. A consummate professional. He was very well received by the crowd."

Sydney Adventist Hospital

"Andrew was absolutely wonderful! He is a true professional - it would be hard to find a better MC. Very down-to-earth and approachable, he made time to talk with all the performers and the band - we couldn't have asked for anything more!"

Holden

"I have run a huge amount of events but have never worked with someone so professional and just simply so good. His spontaneity and his delivery were just perfect and a really nice person to boot. What a wonderful talent."

“Excellent, Andrew was extremely good at taking the script which was extremely dry and making it his own. He added humour and warmth to the formal part of the night which was appreciated by us as well at the client.”
